

captured: If you have captured something, you have caught it and are not letting go.

I captured a ladybug in my hand and then gently let it go.

mercy: If you show kindness or forgiveness to someone who has done something wrong, you show mercy.

My mom showed my brother mercy, when she forgave him for breaking the vase.

struggling: If you are struggling, you are making a great effort with your body or mind to do something.

You can be more successful when you get help if you are struggling to read.

compatible: When people or animals are compatible, they are able to be together or get along with each other.

It is frustrating when my computer isn't compatible with my other programs.

amiable: Someone who is amiable is good natured and friendly.

Choose one of your classmates who you think is amiable and give them a “thumbs up”.

relax: When you relax, you are not uneasy or upset about anything; you spend time resting or doing things for fun.

I love to curl up with a good book and relax at night.
